To the rescue

Newborn twins receive gift of life

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Two Romulus police officers are credited with saving the lives of a set of twins born last week on Edmond Street.

Veteran officer Emmett Barnes and his partner Dwayne DeCaires, who joined the force only three weeks ago, arrived on the scene at about 4:39 a.m. Thursday. Finding the babies not breathing on their own, Barnes administered Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation and started the infants breathing on their own.

Today, according to their aunt Vita Daigle of Belleville, the babies, a boy and girl, "are doing pretty good."

Both babies were delivered by their father, Kenneth Tennille. "No one else was home," said Daigle. The mother, Linda Daigle, 24, has returned home from the hospital and "is doing great."

According to police, both babies and the mother were transported by Taylor Ambulance to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne and at about 6:15 that morning, the babies were taken by helicopter to the University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

"The babies are doing as good as can be expected," said Daigle. "They are starting to breathe on their own. They're so small. People are poking at them. They're hooked up to all those machines and tiny tubes. And they're doing good."

The baby girl has been named Kandida Tennille and weighed 2.6 pounds. The boy is named Kenneth Bernard Jr. and weighs 2.4 pounds. Kandida was born first. They were three months premature, according to their aunt.

The mother just learned of the twin pregnancy the day before delivery. "She was surprised. But couldn't be more happy. She really wanted kids. The father is happy he could have helped. He was the only one home at the time," said Daigle.

"CPR with a newborn infant is difficult. And to revive them is really something," said Romulus Police Chief Charles Wilmoth. "There's a lot of satisfaction here, a good piece of work. I will recommend each officer for a commendation."

It's official

Florence Atchison was born 87 years ago last Friday, on June 19, 1900 in the small town of Barnes, Kansas. She was second youngest of seven children. All but one lived into their eighties. Her ninety year-old sister plays nine holes of golf a day. Her father was a butcher and stock broker. She retired from Western Union after 47 years of service. She was widowed after 39 years of marriage. She and husband Paul, had one daughter. Today, she has three grandchildren, Andy, Patty and Dan. She moved to the Romulus Senior towers seven years ago and writes a monthly column in the senior newsletter. By the way, she is the mother of Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally. ANP photo by Bob Denys

Resident robbed at knifepoint

A Romulus man armed with a knife robbed a fellow Romulus resident and her grandson in the parking lot of a Wayne shopping center Saturday.

According to Wayne Police Lt. Arthur Morton, a Romulus citizen was sitting in her car with her 3-year-old grandson when she was approached by a man with a knife. He ordered her and the boy out of the car and then drove off in her vehicle, taking her purse.

The incident occurred about 5 p.m. in the Metro Mall parking lot. The victim notified local police.

At about 11 a.m. the next day, the victim was riding in a car down Wayne Road when she spotted her stolen vehicle. She followed it to a gas station at the corner of Ecorse Road where the suspect purchased gasoline. She phoned Romulus police from a nearby pay phone.

Romulus Police Officer Michael Kapelanski arrested the suspect in the parking lot of McDonald's restaurant, police noted. Both the vehicle and knife were recovered without incident.

The 19-year-old suspect was arraigned yesterday in 29th District Court by Judge Carolyn Archbold. Warrants were issued for armed robbery.

Car crash claims 2

Enroute to their Toronto, Canada home, two family members were killed as the automobile in which they were riding veered off the I-94 freeway and struck a tree early Sunday morning.

Roberta Barreto, 43, was pronounced dead on the scene and her son, Fernando, 19, expired at a local hospital, Romulus police reported.

The driver, Roque Barreto, 46, received minor injuries as did his daughter Annabella, 10. Another daughter, Annette, 13, was seriously injured according to police.

The accident occurred at 5:26 a.m. in the eastbound lane of the I-94 freeway about one mile west of Merriman Road.

"The driver of the vehicle appears to have fallen asleep and caused the accident. A witness said he watched the vehicle weave from the center lane onto the right shoulder. He lost control, struck a tree and rolled over once," police said. The investigation is incomplete at this time.

8 arrested in feud

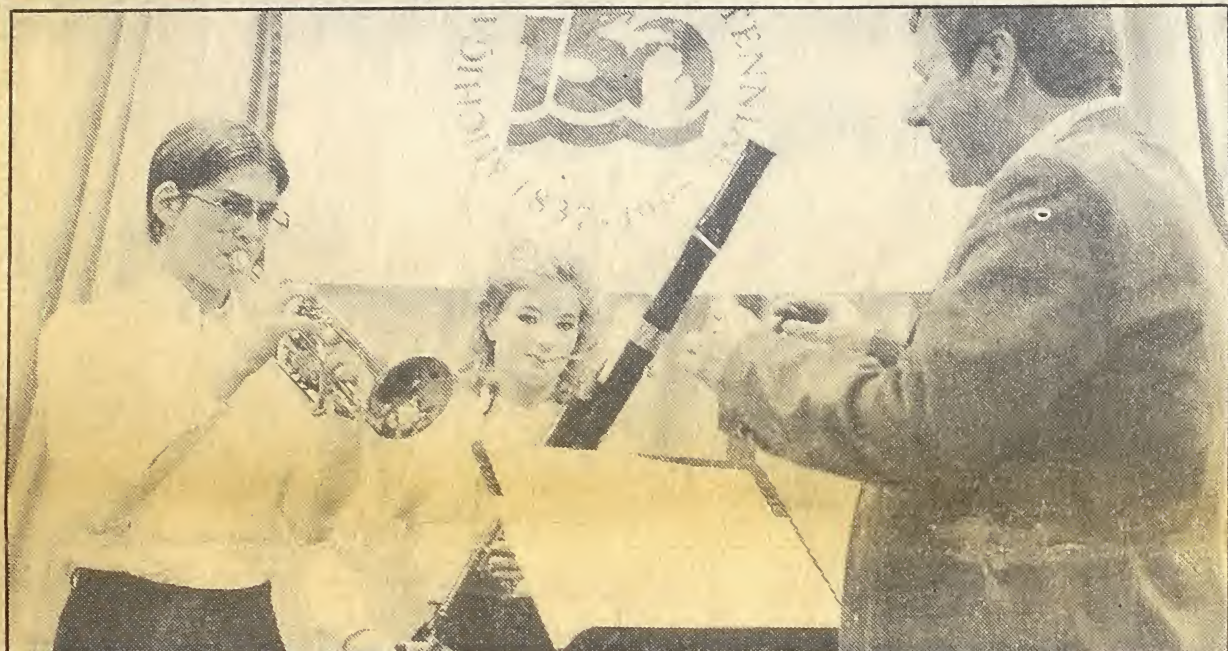

The feuding between two Romulus families came to a halt last Thursday after eight people were arrested as disorderly persons.

The incident occurred before 4 p.m. in the vicinity of Columbus and Horace streets, north of Beverly Road and east of Wayne Road. Several family members carried bats, bottles, sticks and clubs. They damaged the windshield and side window of one area resident's car. There were no injuries among the residents but one Romulus police officer hurt his knee during the brawl. Most were fighting with their fists, police said.

Four persons were arrested from each family. There were two females and four males. All were arrested as disorderly persons. Several residents were also arrested for malicious destruction of property.

"This was the first big fight of the summer," police said. "It was just a hot weather dispute."

Local band performs in Washington

Romulus Junior High's award-winning symphonic band will be performing in the nation's capital today.

Invited to Washington D.C. in conjunction with the 150th anniversary of Michigan's statehood, music director Richard Kruse's group will be at the internationally renowned Sylvan Theater to perform a wide range of musical scores dedicated to Michigan.

The performance was to begin at noon and continue until 1:30 p.m. The all "Pops" - over 20 selections - will also include the "Victors", the University of Michigan fight song, along with the Spartans of Michigan State fight song.

June 24 has been proclaimed as "Michigan Day on the Mall" in Washington and it will feature "an all Michigan celebration", according to the organizers.

The 65-member Romulus band will be staying at historic Georgetown University while in Washington and visiting the King's Dominion Amusement Park after the festival is completed. A picnic is also planned for the young musicians.

The Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek awarded the Romulus band a gift of $1020 to help with the festival preparations, according to Kruse. "We are really grateful for the gift which has helped defray our costs."

"I know that the entire Romulus community is looking forward to representing Michigan at this historic event," Kruse concluded.

Recently, the junior high symphonic band received a first division rating at the State Band Festival conducted at the Romulus Senior High School. This marked the eighth consecutive time Romulus has been rated number one at the state festival.

"Sometimes people are not aware of how Romulus bands fit into the overall picture," said Kruse. "Thus far in the 1980s, for example, the 114 junior high and middle schools in Wayne County have achieved 29 "I" ratings at the state festival. Romulus Junior High bands have 12 of these first division ratings," Kruse said.

Kruse added "that this couldn't have happened without the full support and cooperation of everyone involved, students, parents, teacher, administrators and the Board of Education."

Park is slated for clean-up

Armed with rakes, shovels and garbage bags, residents in the neighborhood of Fernandez Park in the North End of Romulus have planned a massive clean-up for Saturday.

Spearheading the drive are Lela Tennille and Michael Woods. And they don't want to stop there. "We eventually intend to clean up the entire neighborhood," said Woods.

"The homes in this neighborhood are beautiful and the park once was. Lately, it has become overgrown by an element that has destroyed it," he said.

He spoke before members of Romulus City Council on Monday night. Another area resident added that the park has become a haven for gambling, fighting and dope. "My concern is for the safety of the local citizens," the resident said.

The clean-up is slated to begin at 8 a.m. at the Coleman Center on Beverly Road east of Wayne Road.

"The neighbors are willing to cooperate. We want to make this section of Romulus beautiful. We need volunteers," stressed Woods.

The park had been neglected for several years. Mayor Beverly McAnally noted that when the park was built in 1974, it was a state-of-the-art facility and the "finest park in the city."

Since then, however, the city has replaced the restrooms a total of five times. "We can't afford to do that but I officially support the group. This is a good first step," he said.

Councilman Barry Baumann added, "It's nice to see people take pride in Romulus."

The mayor said several major dope busts have occurred in the park and there's been a bad problem with chop shops on the park premises. "That's why we cut down so many of the trees. They drove the cars in and carried the parts out," she said.

"A lot of families would like to use the park. By the end of the summer, you'll see a beautiful park. The park has been used and misused," said Woods.

"It's refreshing to have someone come here and say, can we help you," said Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks.

"I've lived here 26 years," said Tennille. "Fernandez Park was a great park when it was built. My family did everything there. But it's been forgotten."

The mayor recommends that when residents spot something suspicious, call the police, call 941-DOPE. "Let's all cooperate," she said.

"This is just the beginning," Woods concluded.

Gone fishing

Club seeks little league players

The Romulus Athletic Club is seeking little league football players for the fall team. Registration will be conducted from 10 a.m. until noon and from 4-6 p.m. on Saturday, July 11 in the Romulus Recreation Building at the corner of Olive and Bibbins streets. The program is offered to children between the ages of 9 and 14 years old. A varsity program for the older children was not available last year because of low enrollment, according to Pete Bergeron. He said, the program accepts all kids and teaches them about the fundamentals of football. Eight games are played in the program which begins in September and continues through October. Costs were lowered from $40 per child last year to $20 per family and $10 each additional child this year. "It's a good deal," said Bergeron.

More students pass fitness test

President Ronald Reagan recently honored many students at Hayti Elementary School in Romulus with the Presidential Physical Fitness Award for their outstanding performances in four categories: shuttle run, pull-ups, curl-ups and a one-mile run. In addition to those names in the Romulus Roman last week are: James Atwell, Nichole Phillips, Lori Fulton, Shannon Edwards and Kai Smith.

Businesses summoned to Expo Program

Local businesses are encouraged to participate in the first Business Expo by the Western Wayne Industrial Alliance which includes Inkster, Romulus, Wayne and Westland. The event is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 28 and 29 at the Bailey Convention Center, 36651 Ford Road, Westland. The Expo provides one-on-one contact with prospective customers. Product strength or superiority can be demonstrated. The opportunities for local businesses are endless, said John Said, city planner and expo organizer. For information call 478-3187.

Council needs artists and crafters

Members of the Romulus Arts Council are accepting applications for their annual Arts and Crafts Fair scheduled for Sept. 12 in the parking lot of the Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road, Romulus. Space rental cost $10. For information call 941-2678.

Merriman Elementary School hosted an Open House celebrating the Michigan Sesquicentennial. Sixth graders presented a program featuring songs, poems, skits and rhythmic raps about Michigan history. The Romulus Historical Society even made a special appearance wearing their 1830s costumes. (Do they ever take them off?) Performing the Diarama were Ronele Johnson, Doug Rodenberg, Michelle Allen, Christine Brabau and Diane Zemke. The rap vocalists were James McClendon, Diane Zemke, Christine Brabau, Michelle Allen and Leroy Prince. ANP photo by Guy Warren/staff photographer

They never missed a day

Federal Mogul Corporation on Middlebelt Road in Romulus awarded 15 shares of company stock to employees who haven't missed a day of work during the past year. Diligent employees who haven't missed a day in two years since the program initiated received 20 shares of stock. The stock is worth approximately $15,000. Those employees with one year of perfect attendance are: Jim Breitenbeck, Gladys Delotero, Carolyn Graham, Stan Gray, Mike Higgins, Gordon Horn, Mike Jacoby, Al Laronde, Fred Micol, Ray Phelps, Frank Sedlar, Sok Yun and Tom Zimmerman. Those persistent employees who continued for two years are: Richard Janis, Barb Kniffen, James Laramie, Brian McNeil, Raj Pathak, Tom Pociask and Jim Reinke. Joy and sadness

Church congregation bids hello and goodbye

There are tears of joy and sadness for the members of the congregation of the Community United Methodist Church in Romulus.

The congregation will be losing Rev. Margery A. Schleicher, who has been appointed by Bishop Judith Craig to the pastorate of the First United Methodist Church in Sandusky, Michigan.

In the meantime, the Community United Methodist Church awaits The Reverend J.D. Landis, pastor, a native of Lancaster County, Pennsylvania who will be in the pulpit for the Sunday, June 28 service.

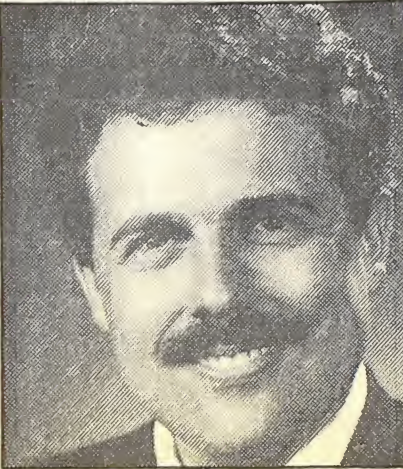

A celebration of Rev. Mrs. Schleicher's ministry in Romulus and an opportunity to say "farewell" to the Schleicher family was organized June 15.

Also, Dr. J. Gordon Schleicher, husband of Rev. Mrs. Schleicher, has been appointed to the Carsonville, Applegate, and Watertown Zion United Methodist Churches near Sandusky. Dr. Schleicher recently graduated from the United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio and was ordained deacon at the Detroit Annual Conference of the UMC. Dr. Schleicher entered the ministry while residing in Romulus after previously having been a university level educator and consultant.

Rev. Mrs. Schleicher has served Community UMC, at 11160 Olive, for the past six years. During her tenure, construction was completed on their house of worship and the congregation moved into its new building on the corner of Bibbins and Olive. The congregation now has only $10,000 left of the building debt to retire.

While serving Community UMC, Rev. Mrs. Schleicher also served Romulus and the area on various community agencies including the Board of Directors of the Romulus Help Center, Romulus Youth Assistance Program Advisory Council, United Community Services Citizens Assembly and Wayne Division Latch Key and Respite Care program committees.

Rev. J.D. Landis

She also served on the Substance Abuse and on the board of directors of the Wayne-Westland YMCA.

Rev. Landis is no stranger to the metropolitan Detroit area. In 1979 he graduated from Westminster Theological Seminary in Philadelphia. That summer, while serving as youth director in Ocean Grove, New Jersey, Rev. Landis received an invitation to minister to the youth and young adults at Metropolitan United Methodist Church by Dr. Bill Quick.

Rev. Margery Schleicher

Orin McMullan dies at 89

Funeral services for longtime Belleville area resident Orin W. McMullan, 89, were June 17. Burial followed at Hillside Cemetery in Belleville with arrangements handled by the David G. Brown Funeral Home. Memorial donations to The Salvation Army, Mr. McMullan's favorite charity, were requested by the family.

Mr. McMullan is survived by his widow, Gurtha, and daughters, Mary S. Shurman of London, England, and Susan C. Payne of Cincinnati, Ohio.

He received engineering degrees from the University of Michigan. In addition, Mr. McMullan studied law and was admitted to both the state and federal bars. His professional life was spent in the field of metallurgy where he developed a high test steel which enabled the jet engine to evolve.

Mr. McMullan was director of research of Bower Roller Bearings (Federal Mogul), a past chairman of the Calumet and Detroit chapters of the American Association of Metals and was recognized nationally as a fellow of the A.S.M. He also was an active life member of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Directory to identify tenants

A directory on the main floor of the Belleville City Hall will guide visitors to rented offices on the second floor of the building.

Keith Bruder, a landscape designer who has an office in the building, had asked for "some visibility" for the renters so that clients and visitors could find the proper office.

Bending the twig

Last Sunday was Fathers' Day. I had resigned myself to avoiding my usual sentimental antics reserved for such benchmark occasions. I had only moderate success.

Holidays and "special days" tend to trigger, for some of us, special thoughts. We recall the way things were in our lives at times gone by...and we think about the way we might like things to be in the future.

These days of note seem to be particularly difficult for those of us who have been touched by the moving hand of divorce. Like the death of a parent, unless you have felt the crushing grip of divorce, it is almost impossible to adequately explain.

As for Father's Day, I, of course, wax nostalgic of days gone by, when as I grew to manhood, I tutored under the loving and caring direction and correction...of my dad.

When I was but a tyke, I thought I would "surprise" him by painting the inside of the garage with some leftover paint. The fact that there was but a pint of paint, and that it was fire engine red, was no deterrent to me. And yet my father understood. Like it, he did not.

When my mother was away, and my brother and I were to go to our grandparents with Dad at 10 a.m. for a holiday, we became impatient as he slept. Our scheme to set all the clocks in the house ahead one hour and wake him an hour early might have gone better had he not slept wearing his wrist watch. After appropriate negative sanctions, he forgave but he did not forget.

When I took up photography and was entrusted with the assignment of shooting the Charter Commission of Inkster getting Governor Romney's signature...and the camera misfired...my dad let it pass and never chastised me for my failure.

When I grew physically and emotionally and was taken advantage of by those I called "friend" in a business situation, my father spoke to me philosophically, and practically in ways that helped to heal the scars.

Now I have two children that I have fathered, Douglas John Willett, 20 years of age, and Deborah Jean Willett, 18. I have two step sons, Donald and Steven, as well.

They say that as the twig is bent, so grows the tree. One can only wonder what memories our children will recall when they are grown and have children and grandchildren of their own. How will we have affected or influenced, good or bad, their evolution into thinking, caring individuals. Will our feeble attempts to pass on to them what limited wisdom we possess achieve any measure of success toward improving their existence? Oh that we could know, or perhaps it's just as well that we don't.

When I first went to work at the Free Press almost 17 years ago, I recall that the employment application asked about my goals in life. I wrote, "I would like the world to be left a better place for others because I had lived."

Some suggest that as long as another lives in the memory of a fellow human being, then they are still alive. Some amass great fortunes and leave the money to worthy causes so that their names will be emblazoned across brick and mortar. Some paint great works, create inspiring cut glass windows, some write books, or even columns.

Certainly fathering is a means of leaving behind what we hope will be an instrument for improving the world of those who will follow. I think that right in there with other basic instincts such as fight or flight, and the seeking of food and shelter, is procreation. The desire to perpetuate ourselves as a species, as a family, as a practitioner of a craft, runs deep indeed.

Fathering is, of course, far more than a matter of biology. When we develop a relationship, friendship, or attachment to other human beings, we sometimes become a father figure.

My father was a father figure to many. His caring for others was demonstrated to a fault, yet it is what keeps him alive in the mind of so many as someone who was admired and respected.

Being a father is an awesome responsibility, and a matter that should require formal schooling and a license before being empowered by God to be a practitioner.

As a practical matter, I doubt that such a system is forthcoming. And so we must resign ourselves to doing the best we can with what we have to operate with in our limited life span.

May we all demonstrate tolerance and understanding with each other as parent and child, student and teacher, young and old.

Here's to the institution of fatherhood...imperfect as it may be. May we cherish our memories of days gone by, and aspire to better days ahead. Let us seek perfection in our role as father to those of our seed, as well as those who thirst for our counsel.

See you next week.

A minority perspective

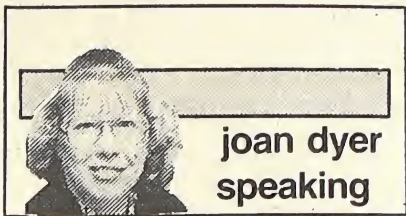

The one-issue voters may not be a new phenomenon, but they do seem to be proliferating these days.

You will recognize them as those who focus all of their time and effort on the one problem which currently interests them, and appear to be oblivious of the problems or concerns of anyone else.

These issues range from such concerns as pro-life and pro-choice, "Save the Whales" and women's rights to who will pick up the tax bill or why the community doesn't need another fast food restaurant. Supporters have strong opinions on their issue or cause, but often have little concern about the other person's issue.

If banning a drive-through restaurant is on their minds, then please don't talk about ecology issues or equal rights. And, if at first they don't agree, then obviously the elected officials are not in touch with the voice of the people and need to be removed from their duties. It is as simple as that to many of the one-issue voters - take on my special interest or else. Forget the other 5,000, 10,000 or 50,000 people who live in the community and solve my special problem, they are saying in effect. Don't be concerned with who will pay the piper after you have given me what I want, and I will fade away - never to attend another public meeting or hearing again, they seem to be saying.

Some of my earliest memories of being a reporter were the appearances of the

joan dyer speaking

pressure groups at township or city meetings just before the final budgets were adopted.

Those of us at the press table would whisper "here come the storm troopers" as the special interest group marched into the unfamiliar community meeting room. They usually arrived late (possibly because they were unfamiliar with the meeting time or, perhaps, for dramatic effect,) spoke their piece, made veiled threats of either recall or dumping their elected representatives at the next election and then stormed noisily out.

None of them stayed to listen to the remainder of the agenda items or the motion to adjourn.

The group with an axe to grind before their elected officials came from all areas of the community, but their one similarity is that no issue but their own seemed to warrant any interest.

Sometimes they were members of the local hockey association (incidentally, my favorite sport) who all appeared in their colorful jackets with the league name emblazoned on the back. Along with the coaches and managers were the Wayne Gretzkys of the future - all clean-cut, athletic and eager youngsters who well deserved a cut of the community budget to keep them on the ice and off of the streets. At other times, they were the youth baseball or football supporters, but the scenario was the same and the elected officials were usually reluctant to cut their budgets and sabotage the future of the next generation.

As I recall, no one from the sports clubs or any of the other special interest groups stayed at the meetings long enough to get a full picture of the complex issues that were facing their elected officials. None of them stayed to hear the equally-deserving pleas of other groups before they scraped their metal chair legs across the tile floor and shuffled out of the meeting room.

Too bad that there is a reluctance to listen to the other person's woes and to understand that the community pie needs to be cut up into many, many tiny portions. Too bad that when pleas are made for more services, there is not a awareness of the accompanying need for more revenue - your tax dollars and mine.

Perhaps a better understanding of how local government works could be gained if one-issue voters could take off their blinders for one evening and attend a city or township meeting from the roll call to the adjournment. Perhaps the lesson that government exists to serve all of the people could be learned.

Veterans memorial tribute to city

To The Editor:

In response to F.B. of Westland, (Westland Eagle: June 10, 1987), yes, I saw grown adults cry at the Vietnam Veterans War Memorial Dedication Ceremony, myself included. I was very awed to think that four men gave three to four years of their time to see that our city and state could have a Vietnam Veterans War Memorial to be proud of. Kenneth Mehl is the only member of the four from the Westland Vietnam Veterans Association who is on the city council. If it had not been for the dedication of these four people, there would not have been a Vietnam Veteran War Memorial. The brass plaque was a way of letting people know who four concerned Vietnam War Veterans were.

This Vietnam Veterans War Memorial was never to have the names of the fallen soldiers engraved on it. The marble stone was carved to form a V and an M engraved in the stone is another V indicating Vietnam Veterans of Michigan to cover everyone (living and dead) in Michigan that served in the Vietnam conflict.

I know that the P.A. system during the ceremony wasn't very good. However, the Memorial Booklet has information regarding all the wonderful people that helped to see this memorial completed. Due to inclement weather, the memorial wasn't finished on time. As for your view stating that the memorial is ugly, any art form is in the eyes of the beholder and can be interpreted a thousand ways.

Your last comment, "fattening the fat cats from the old city hall gang," can't be understood. All monies contributed went to build the memorial. Nothing else. There are always dignitaries involved at any kind of dedication. Since the memorial has been built, it has been viewed on cable and local television.

Resident fears cat control

To The Editor:

Please tell the Wayne City Council to leave cats alone.

During the middle ages, church and civil authorities believed that cats were agents of the devil and had them hunted down. The rat population exploded. With them came fleas and the black plague that wiped out 75 percent of the population of Europe. Even the smell of a cat will send rats scurrying.

The cat population of Wayne earns its keep. With the beautiful sewage-laden Rouge flowing through Wayne, we need our cats. Besides, how many cases of cat bite have been reported this year? You don't own a cat, it tolerates you.

Please, will I have to keep my cat on a leash? Oh well, it's going to be a crazy summer starting at city hall.

County 'show' takes to the road

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The show is on the road again as members of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners brought their regular meeting before residents of the out-Wayne County area at Schoolcraft College in Garden City.

The traveling meetings are required by the County Charter adopted in 1983. Eight are required to be scheduled outside the regular board chambers in the City County Building in downtown Detroit. Four meetings must take place within the city of Detroit and four must be conducted in the surrounding Wayne County communities.

"It's important to bring the county government to the people," said Wayne County Commissioner Milt Mack. Ironically, he noted this was the first meeting he had to miss this year. Of the 15 board members, three other members had excused absences and one member was absent but unexcused.

"This was one problem in the community the new charter identified: county government was not easily identified nor is their a clear constituency. Everybody identifies with their local city or community but not with the county of Wayne. Yet, the county does provide many services to local residents," he said.

This lack of visibility, Mack said, has created a lack of accountability which has historically afflicted Wayne County government.

Commissioner Kay Beard shares similar thoughts about the positive exposure of the traveling meetings. Both commissioners also agree that too few residents are in attendance.

"It's strange, but not much really happens at these board meetings. Most of the action occurs in the committee meetings. However, business is conducted as usual and official action is taken on a number of issues," said Beard.

She noted one problem with these formal board meetings is that residents must wait until the end of the meeting to ask questions of the board members.

"If there's an issue, people will show up. Last year in Huron Township, over 200 people attended a meeting to discuss improper assessments of the drain commissioner. In fact, that meeting was instrumental in placing on the ballot, the vote to eliminate the office of drain commissioner. Attendance is based on the issues important at the time," Mack said.

The new charter was adopted on Jan. 1, 1983. At the same time, William Lucas filled the new position of county executive, the number of commissioners on the board was reduced to 15 from 28, and the traveling meetings began, Mack explained.

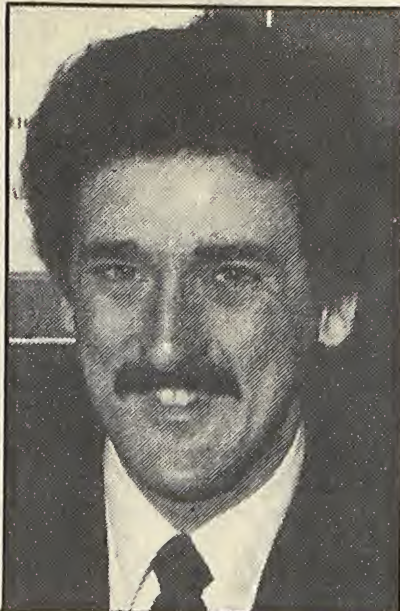

He said, the meeting force accountability from board members. "I think the meetings work well," he said.

Meetings are conducted twice a month by the commissioners, according to the charter. A 72-hour notice is required to call a meeting, although most meetings are known a week or more in advance.

"Lately, we've scheduled meetings every week. But with county reorganization certain issues need direction. We've really been burning it," added Beard.

Bike-A-Thon set on June 27

Plans for the first Van Buren-Belleville Bike-A-Thon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association are reported to be well underway.

The event, during which bicyclists may ride 11.5 or 23 miles at Lower Huron Metropark, is geared for family participation. It is not a race, according to the sponsors.

To participate, each biker must collect a minimum of $20 in sponsorship money. This entitles the rider to a free MDA Superstar T-shirt, juice along the route plus food, fun and games at a picnic following the race.

The Bike-A-Thon is being conducted in cooperation with the Belleville Area Study Club and other community organizations. Bike-A-Thon packets will be signed out at the Van Buren Recreation Department or by calling the MDA office at 381-3838.

Body found in Sumpter

Michigan State Police detectives are seeking the identity of a young black man whose body was found in Sumpter Township last Wednesday.

The still-unidentified man was described as about 20 years old with a heavy build. He was wearing a white University of Michigan T-shirt, white tennis shoes and a white hat. According to state police officers, the man was apparently shot several times and his body dumped near Sherwood and Willow roads in Sumpter Township.

Individuals who may have information on the shooting victim may contact the Sumpter Township police or the State Police post in Flat Rock.

Oakwood's Women & Children's Health Care Center

Babies have a special place at Oakwood

The most special place for a new baby is in the loving arms of its parents. We can't replace the personal care given by a mother and father. But we can give babies very special attention at Oakwood Hospital's Women and Children's Health Care Center.

Our expert group of physicians and nurses is specially trained in the care of expectant mothers and newborns, delivering more than 4,000 babies a year. And, for high-risk babies and mothers who need much closer attention, highly skilled neonatologists and obstetricians are on duty 24 hours a day.

In addition, we offer a range of services for expectant mothers — from prenatal testing and exercise classes to a birthing room that feels like home. And we haven't forgotten the little things, either — like classes for fathers in the fine art of changing diapers and gourmet dinners for brand new parents who want to celebrate in a special way.

Our care extends to women of other ages, too. We're concerned about general wellness — whether you're a grandmother, a teenager or anywhere in between.

For more information about our services — including tours, brochures or classes — call Oakwood Hospital's Women and Children's Health Care Center, 593-7694. We'd like to show you what special care is all about.

For a physician specializing in women and children's health care, call our physician referral service at 1-800-543-WELL.

Tiny goats are big hit with area kids

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

A small farm on Wahrman Road is the unlikely home for a herd of pygmy goats.

The farm, just north of Sibley Road near I-275, has been in the Pustelak family for more than 90 years. Rabbits - from dwarf to giants - are the specialty of the Pustelaks, but the tiny goats prompt the most attentions from visitors.

Mary Pustelak, her husband and seven children care for the menagerie. In addition to allowing the public to view their animals, they provide tips on animal care and dispell some popular myths about pets. For example, she shows children how to pick up a rabbit - never by the ears - by holding both the back of the neck and supporting the hind quarters at the same time.

"I don't know why people think that goats eat tin cans," Mary Pustelak said, "but they won't eat just anything. They have their own feed. Because these pygmy goats are unusual for this area, we have had to study and learn about them to take proper care of them. In fact, we're still learning."

Pustelak said passersby mistake the adult goats for "babies" because of their size. The goat family does include one small kid, she said, but the adult animals appear to be young goats because of their size.

The Pustelaks also have some exotic types of chicken plus geese, guinea hens and pigeons, all of which they are willing to show to visitors.

"Children really enjoy seeing farm animals up close where they can get a good look at them and pet them," Pustelak said.

There are no set visiting hours, according to the Pustelaks, but they said visitors will find the pygmy goats "a little more frisky and active" during the cooler hours of the day.

The good witch

Wayne woman claims witchcraft is a religion

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

Lynda Grabowski is one woman who doesn't mind being called a witch. She'll be the first to admit that she is one.

Grabowski, A.K.A. Ezmirrelda, said that she believes it is time for her to come forward and educate the public about the true nature of her craft: Witchcraft, that is.

Grabowski, 41, said that she has been practicing witchcraft nearly all of her life and that she speaks on behalf of her sisters, when she says that she is tired of society constantly associating witches with evil and Satanism.

Grabowski, who defines witchcraft as a religion and her way of life, said that the word witchcraft is derived from the latin word "Wicca," which means "wise one". Therefore, she said, witchcraft, when translated literally means, "craft of the wise one".

At present, Grabowski said, there are over six million witches and pagans in the United States alone.

"We surround you in every profession and community. We are herbalogists, bank presidents, astrologists, physicists and psychics, film producers and philosophers. Our numbers are large and we're uniting in this country and abroad to fight the inaccurate and negative depiction of witches everywhere."

Grabowski, a Wayne resident, said that she and her fellow witches are particularly disturbed by the way in which witches are portrayed in the movie "Witches of Eastwick," currently being shown in movie theatres all over the metro area.

"The witches in this movie are depicted as evil, manipulative and satanic. We hope to remedy this, for it is negative stereotyping. There is a great difference between wicca and satanism. We are not satanists."

Satanists, said Grabowski, worship satan and all things that are evil. Witches do not.

"Like any other religion, witches also believe in a supreme being, in our case, it's the "ultimate deity." Just as Christians have a goal to be reunited with Christ, our primary goal is to be reunited with a divine being."

Witches perform elaborate rituals, according to Grabowski, the high priestess of her particular circle. One important ritual that every witch must go through is the initiation, which is open only to witches and those being initiated into a circle.

A circle, which is also known as a coven by witches, consists of a maximum of 13 witches.

At the initiation, each witch must choose a name that he or she will be called. "Ezmirrelda" is the name that Grabowski chose for herself when she was first initiated.

Grabowski emphasized that, in the witches' rituals, there is no bloodshed or any sort of violence to achieve desires.

Witches have a number of principles that they adhere to in a very rigid way. They have a strict tenet that they go by: "If it harm none, do as you will."

Translated, this means witches can do anything that they put their minds to, but it shouldn't harm anything or anyone, Grabowski explained. "Lucretia" is also a witch. She, too, has been practicing witchcraft nearly all of her life, and had a lot to say about witches.

"We don't want people to be afraid of us. We're human beings, just like they are. We're not going to move trees or blink our eyes to make them disappear, but we do have powers to do those things, if we really wanted to do them."

Grabowski called herself a nature-lover and said that nature plays an important part in witchcraft.

"Trees and all things that are beautiful are important to us. It's a whole appreciation of these things. Whatever you give to the earth, it'll give back to you. If you nurture the trees and wildlife, you'll get the same in return. A witch finds beauty in everything."

Grabowski said that, only when witches feel that their harmonious environment is being threatened will they give reason to be feared.

"A witch is not to be taken lightly when her environment is being threatened."

According to Grabowski, up until the mid-1950s, there were still old laws in effect in this country prohibiting witchcraft and providing for the burning at the stake of witches.

Grabowski said that now all of that has changed. She has documented evidence of an April, 1977 Federal Court ruling which states that wicca is a legitimate religion which is subject to protections, under law, afforded to any other religious group in this country.

And what do the friends of "Ezmirrelda" and "Lucretia" think of their practicing witchcraft?

"Most of them joke around with us about it. They don't take us really serious, unless they run into trouble and need us to help them out," said Lucretia.

Grabowski said that the fact that she is a witch is not something that she'll just come out and tell some one the moment she first meets them, therefore, only the people that she knows really well will know that she practices wicca.

Until fairly recently, Grabowski wasn't known as "Ezmirrelda" to too many people.

"I was in the closet about this, especially while my sons were growing up. I knew what kind of ridicule that they would've gone through, had I come forward with this years earlier."

Grabowski said that she was the "model mom" when her kids were younger.

"I kept the 'Donna Reed' image in front of my kids. I grew up right here in Wayne, I was a Wayne High graduate, like my kids were. I was very active in community affairs, very involved with the things that my kids did in school. Besides my craft, my greatest pride is my two sons."

Lucretia, too, has remained somewhat secretive about her craft, while dealing with, what she called "external conflicts".

"Sometimes it's hard for me to deal with the family after having been brought up in a certain way and then practicing something that many people view in a negative way."

While Ezmirrelda and Lucretia said that they do not stand over a big black cauldron to concoct wild potions made with the eye of a newt or bats wings, they did say that they are herbologists and do often conjur up potions and elixirs made up of different herbs.

Grabowski added that witches do actively participate in spiritual healing, or what she also referred to as "hands-on healing."

In order for someone to even consider becoming a witch, he or she must devote one year and one day, which is a witch's equivalent to a year (according to the old calendar, which had 366 days a year) to intense study of the crafts.

The studies include different religions, astrology, sorcery and herbalism.

After the studying, the person must then choose a sponsor who will prepare them for their initiation into a circle. This is provided the person who has studied has asked to be initiated and has been accepted by the sponsor.

Grabowski said that, the main point that she and her fellow witches want to stress is that witches are people, too. They are not evil, they would never intentionally harm anyone, they are not devil-worshippers. They are people that everyone knows. They are Avon Ladies, Tupperware Representatives, the little old man down the street.

Grabowski summed up her feelings with a quote from Author-Witch Sybil Leek:

"I am a witch. This is a simple statement of my faith in witchcraft, the old religions, the craft of the wise."

Skin sizzles without any precautions

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

"Everyone seems to think that a tanned body is a healthy body, but actually, just the opposite is true," warned Dr. Charles N. Ellis of the University of Michigan recently. Ellis, who is the associate professor of dermatology at U of M, said that people should remember that sunlight is a form of radiation and when people are in the sun, they are subjecting their skin to radiation.

"The effects of radiation build up over a lifetime, not for just that week that they may have coloring in their skin," said Ellis.

Ellis said that the main effects of radiation on the skin are skin cancer and rapid aging.

Despite these warnings, however, many people will continue to work on those tans for as long as the weather will permit, so what can they do to avoid damaging their skin?

"If they're going to sunbathe, we recommend that they use moderation," said Ellis.

For those people who need to be outdoors as a course of their employment or for recreational activities, Ellis suggested that they arrange not to be in direct sunlight between the hours of 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. This is the time when the rays of the sun are the strongest and could therefore cause the most damage to skin.

Ellis added that these people should wear a sunscreen with a strong sunblock and also a wide-brimmed hat to protect head and facial features. Conducting some of your activities in the shade might also help, he said.

And for those people who admittedly enjoy sunbathing for both the relaxation and the privilege of looking great in those light-colored summer fashions, Ellis had some additional tips for safe sun-tanning.

- AVOID BURNING. Burning is the skin's reaction to the rays of the sun.

- AVOID BINGE SUNBATHING. Binge sunbathing is when a person will get a large dose of sun, a quick tan, and then not get any more for an extended period of time. This is bad for skin pigmentation. Ellis said that if you must tan, give the skin a chance to build up the pigmentation over a gradual period of time.
- USE SUNSCREEN. Use this from early on in the season, beginning with a high protection and gradually working down to a lesser protection.

Ellis added that the worst thing that a person could try to do is to aim for the darkest tan in the least amount of time.

"If this is your goal, you're hurting trouble."

Ellis had one final tip.

"Don't try to keep up with everyone else who seems to be getting deep, dark tans. Look at your own skin, instead of looking over your shoulder at someone else's."

Summer sensations

Be sure to stock up with the latest fads

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Summer began two days ago. And as sure to follow as the hot days of August are the new summer trends of 1987. Many unusual sightings have already been spotted in the local area.

What they're wearing on the beaches, in the malls, at work and in the back yard, has been clearly established, according to several local experts. In short, the fashions of summer have arrived.

Who are these people and what makes them experts? They're young and they can spot a trend an inch or a color shade away. Like shooting stars, some individuals predict several popular summer fads won't last until September. Oh no!

Oh yes! Fame is certainly fleeting, these young people are first to admit. However, as long as somebody's friend has it, wears it or talks about it, it is in demand and everybody wants it.

Young people randomly questioned were in total agreement about the number one trend in the summer of '87. Bermuda shorts. They should be crazy colored and wildly patterned--and they are number one on the fashion hit parade. Better known as "jams," according to Kirsten Laderach, 18, recent graduate of Plymouth-Salem High School in Canton.

"Jams are the popular name," Laderach said, "Long shorts and anything that's shocking and the louder the better."

Angela Fronzak, 17, recent graduate of Romulus High School agrees. "The bermuda short thing started last summer for both guys and girls." These local young people are surprisingly candid about these passing trends. "I think they're ugly," said Michelle Kalasz, 17, recent graduate of Belleville High School, "but I own two or three pair."

"Some shorts are really outrageous that people wear them just to be different from everybody else. But now everybody wears them. The thing about fashion today is, it has to be different," Kalasz added.

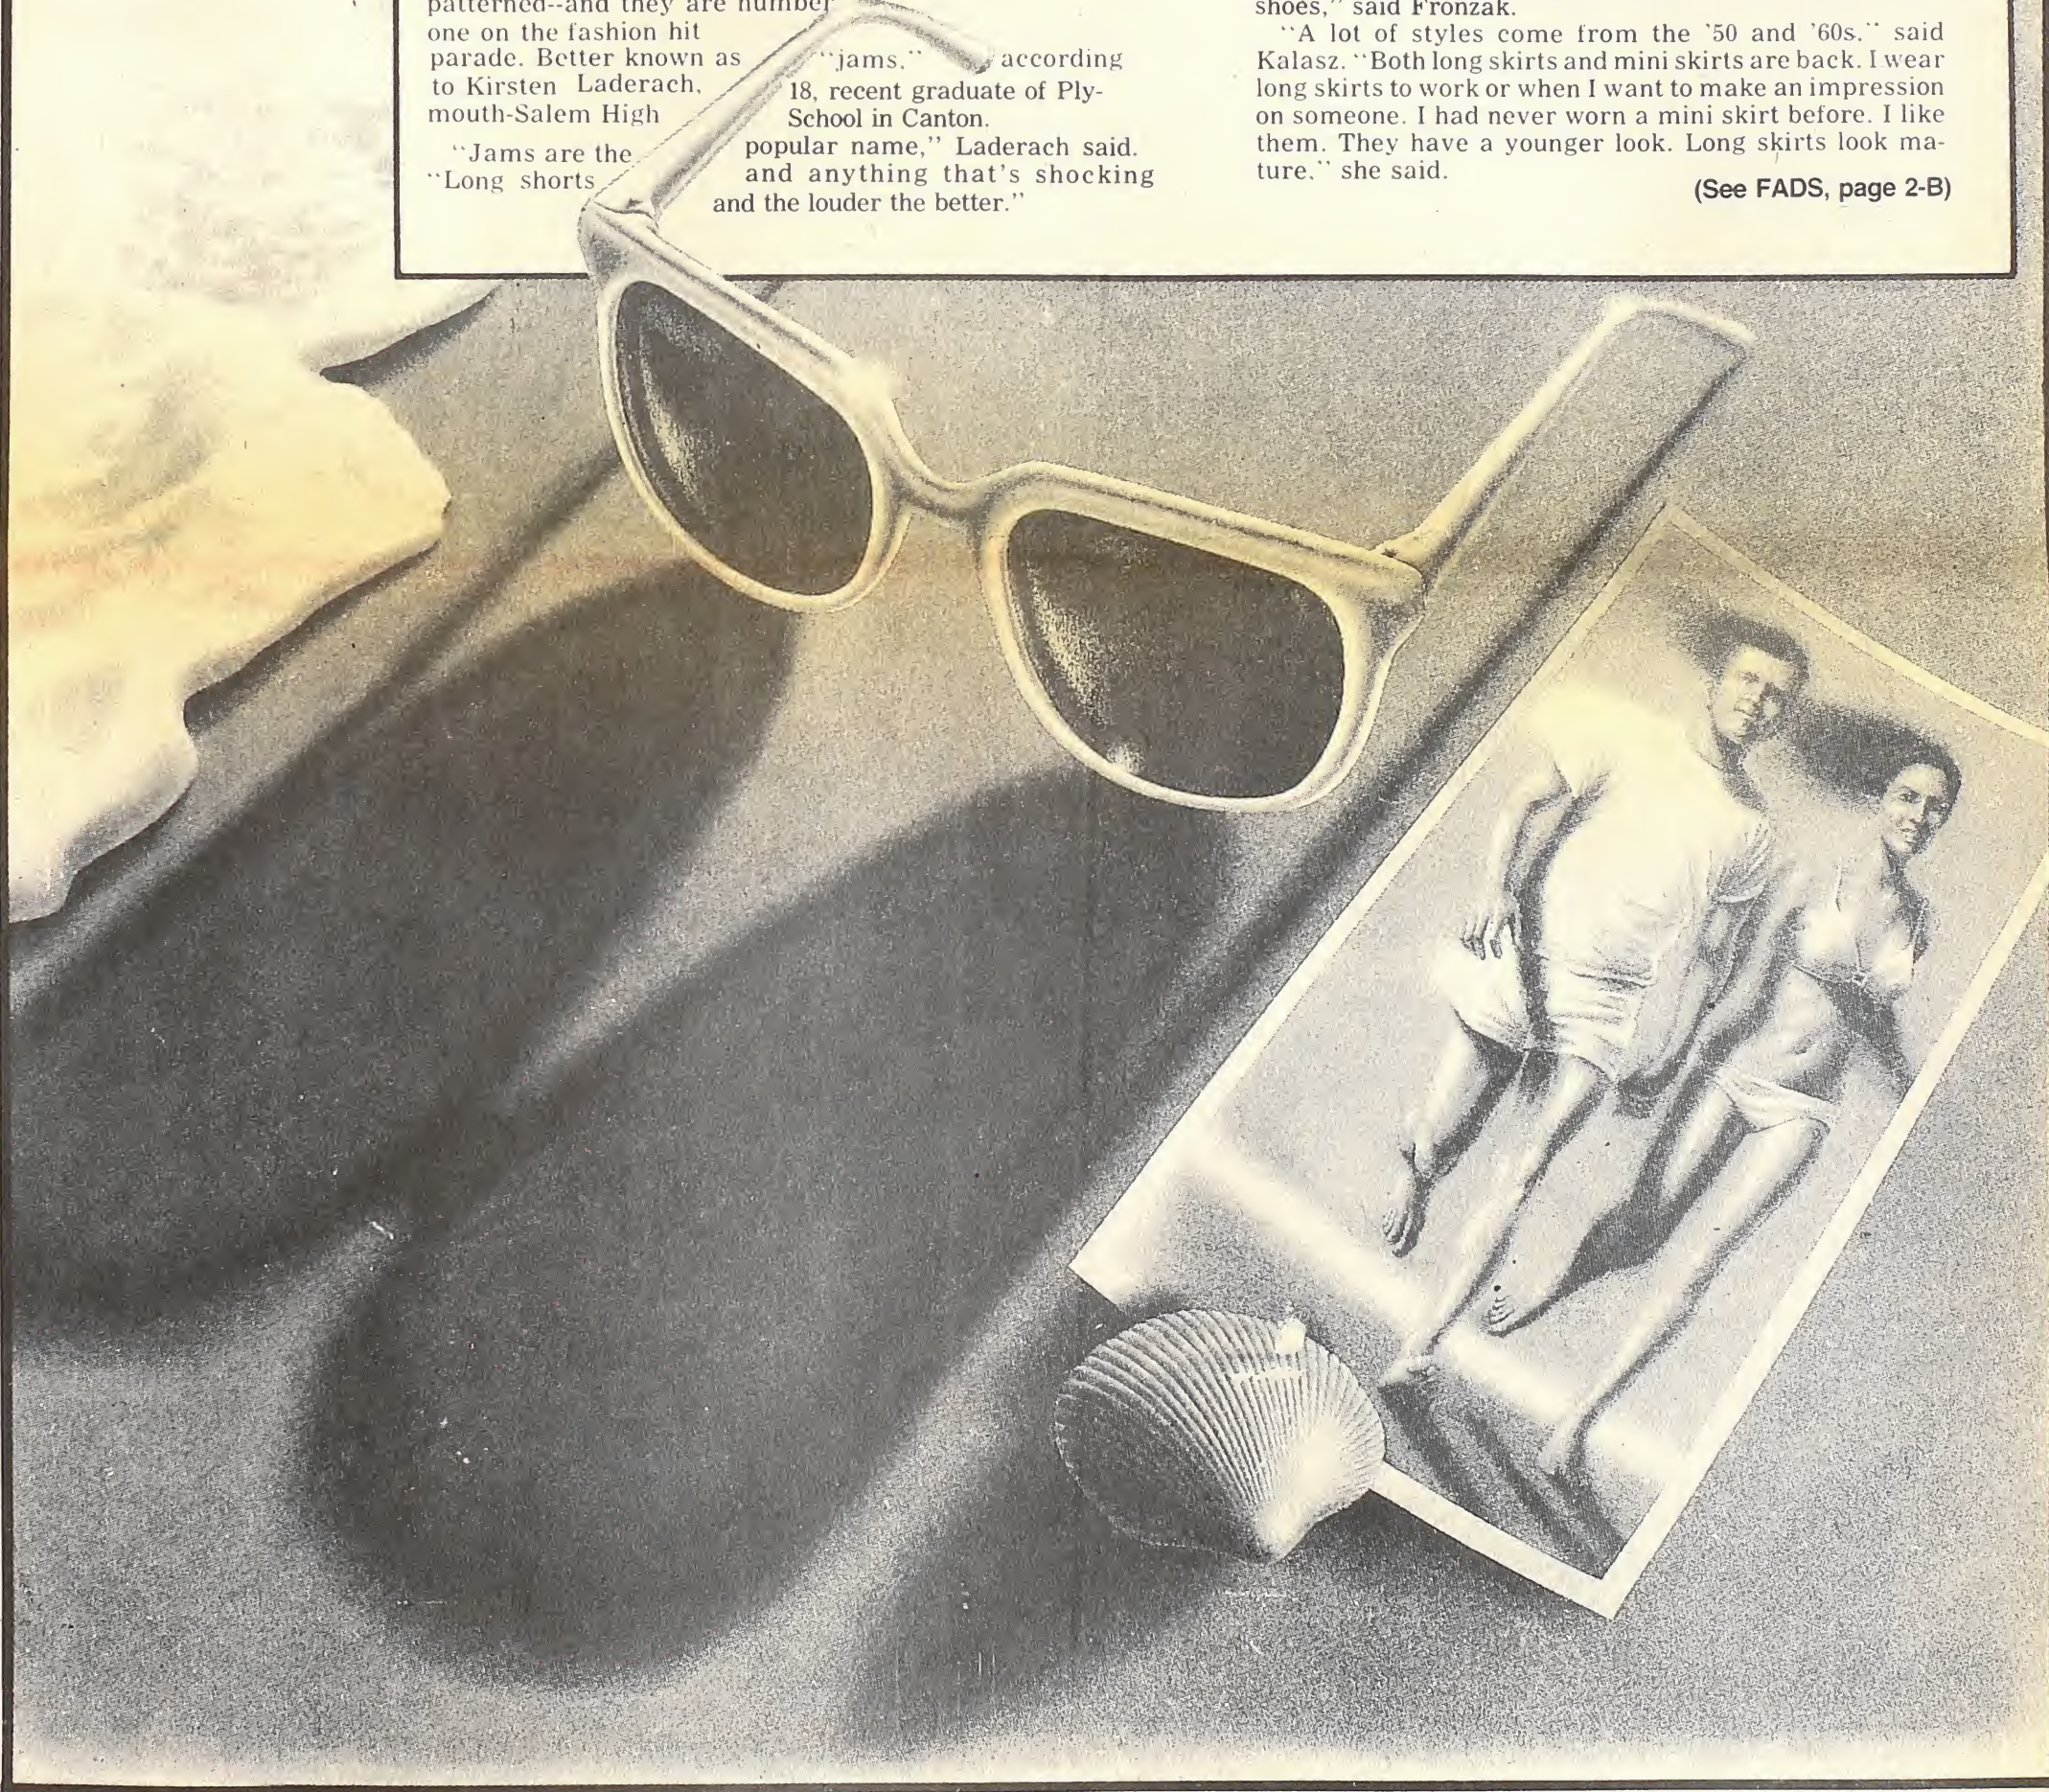

"Long bermuda shorts are in, but I don't like 'em. Pure and simple. I like solid colors," stated Michelle Good, 17, senior at Romulus High School. Good acted as spokesperson for her three sisters all between the ages of 19 and 16. Her 14-year-old brother, Raymond, speaks for himself.

"Yeah, bermuda shorts and Spuds Mackenzie T-shirts. You know Spuds. He's the dog or the 'party animal' in the Bud Light television commercial. I don't have one yet," said Ray.

Reebok brand gum shoes receive an approving nod from the local "in-crowd" while, at the same time, regular tennis shoes get a thumbs down. Flat shoes are in for girls, and deck shoes are just okay for guys. "They're just basic shoes," said Fronzak.

"A lot of styles come from the '50 and '60s," said Kalasz. "Both long skirts and mini skirts are back. I wear long skirts to work or when I want to make an impression on someone. I had never worn a mini skirt before. I like them. They have a younger look. Long skirts look mature," she said.

Pack up the kids – vacation time is here again

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

No matter how much people complain about the high temperatures and humidity, few individuals seek a cool spot for their summer vacation, according to Debbie Dillingham of Adventure Travel in Belleville.

At present the hot spots for summer vacations are literally "hot spots" – Florida, Las Vegas, Atlantic City and Chicago, she said. Bargain rates seem to have more influence on the selection of a vacation site than cool temperatures and chilly breezes, according to the travel representative. Temperatures last weekend rose to 88 degrees in Miami and 93 in St. Petersburg, Tampa and Orlando. Las Vegas hit a high of 101 degrees on Saturday while Chicago matched the Detroit area temperatures in the high eighties.

Travelers flocked to purchase the $9 one-way air fare to Chicago during the past few weeks, she said. Now, vacationers are taking advantage of the American Airlines $139 round-trip fare to Florida and also low rates to cities in the west and midwest that are offered by Southwest Airlines.

If travelers express an interest in cooler temperatures,

At present the hot spots for summer vacations are literally "hot spots."

Dillingham would recommend northern Michigan – Mackinac Island, for example, or Canadian cities such as Montreal or Toronto.

While Michigan residents enjoyed weekend temperatures close to 90 degrees, Montreal registered a high of 70 and Toronto recorded a high of 77. The thermometers in Quebec City climbed to a high of 68 and Ottawa registered a high of 70 degrees. Still, Dillingham reported, there was no rush of tourists seeking a refuge from the city heat.

She noted that area residents are already booking their Christmas holiday vacations to Hawaii and the Caribbean Islands and signing up for cruises. It seems that residents of southeastern Michigan just can't get enough sunshine and warm weather, she observed.

Travelers often pick the summer months to vacation in Europe, Dillingham said, but their motives to take a European vacation usually aren't based on the seasonal temperatures.

If seeking cooler weather was the only criteria for travel, the most popular vacation spots in Europe this past weekend would have been Amsterdam, which registered a high of 55 on Saturday, and Copenhagen, which recorded a cool 54 degrees on the same day. Unfortunately, both cities also noted cloudy skies and rain. Brussels, Dublin, Frankfurt and Paris all showed highs in the sixties last weekend.

Based solely on temperature, the city to avoid visiting during the summer season is New Delhi, India, which had a high of 108 degrees and a low of 82 this past weekend.

The Rev. Albert Prouty will officiate during the ceremony. Janet Wilk will serve as the vocalist.

The bride has chosen a white, traditional wedding gown and veil. She will be given away by her father.

Maid of honor for the occasion will be Lynda Heebsh, the bride's sister. Bridesmaids will include Donna Demmers, Paula Goodman and Pat Guigar, sisters of the bride; and Cindy Carpenter and Cathy Herrera, sisters of the groom.

Best man will be Tim Quinlan. Ushers will include Doug Vogel, Marc Milewski, Pat Hegadus, Clay Carpenter and Mike Elhaje.

A reception will follow the ceremony at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Redford. A rehearsal dinner will precede the event at the couple's house.

The two plan to rent a recreational vehicle and travel throughout northern Michigan for their honeymoon.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Wayne Memorial High School and works for Principal Financial Group.

The groom-elect is a graduate of Melvindale High School and holds a bachelor of science degree from Wayne State University and an associate's degree from Henry Ford Community College. He works as a private investigator and plans a future job move to the U.S. government.

Shandros have a new daughter

Steve and Kathie Shandro of Belleville are the new parents of a baby daughter, Christina Audrey, born March 12 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

The infant made her debut weighing in at 8 pounds, 6 ounces.

VanDalens have a new baby boy

Gregory Paul VanDalen was born the second child of David and Tammie VanDalen at 4:45 p.m. April 14 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The infant made his debut weighing in at 9 pounds, 5 ounces and measuring 21 1/4 inches.

He is the new brother of David Scott, 3; and the new grandson of Agnes Scott of Belleville.

Michalak have a new son

Robert Patrick Michalak is the son of Robert Michalak and Patti Zimmer, born at 12:20 p.m. April 13 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor.

The infant made his debut weighing in at 10 pounds, 5 ounces and measuring 21 1/2 inches.

He is the new grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zimmer of Ypsilanti and Isabelle Michalak of Dearborn heights; and the new great-grandson of Margarete Zimmer of Belleville.

Sunglasses continue to be a summer favorite. "They look cool," said Fronzak. "I've got a couple, one pair with mirrors."

Brightly colored sunglasses are in vogue. "I know one girl with a real pale face but wears bright red glasses. It looks terrible, but it makes her face stand out," said Good.

Gold jewelry, especially big gold earrings are fashionable, both Fronzak and Good said. And hair bows, Fronzak added.

Tanning and going to the beach are in again, if they were ever out. Popular places to go include the metro parks. Elizabeth Park in Trenton or Silver Lake in Washenaw County.

Young people today are affected by the music they listen to and the concerts they go to. Laderach just returned from a Beach Boys concert at Pine Knob. "They're one of the best concerts of the summer. It's a fun concert. There's more young people there than older. It's because their music never dies. I went, two years in a row."

Some movies showing this summer recommended are "The Untouchables" and "Platoon." One not popular with the younger crowd is "Predator." "It's too gory," said Kalasz.

Good is an Elvis fan. She spends lots of money on cassettes and tapes, she said. But she also likes Journey, Chicago, Madonna and Cindi Lauper. "I like the way she dresses," she said of Lauper. "She shows how she feels. I like to dress the way I want to dress. I'm more traditional. But if I want to wear tennis shoes, I'm going to wear them."

Some health plans are like hospital gowns: They never cover as much as you wish they would.

When it comes to health care, traditional medical insurance leaves a lot to be desired. Because they only cover a portion of your costs. Health Alliance Plan, on the other hand, is much more comprehensive. We offer complete coverage for virtually everything from pediatrics to geriatrics. And this extensive medical coverage is available from over 1,600 physicians at 23 medical centers, 18 hospitals and hundreds of individual doctor's office locations.

To find out how you can become a member, call 872-8100. You'll learn why Health Alliance Plan is such a great way to cover your medical needs. And that's the naked truth.

Your health deserves the best.

Area chefs put recipes on video tape

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

If you can read, you can cook. Sure, you can. But these days, prospective gourmets don't even have to read to be able to create kitchen masterpieces. Enter Glass Eye Video Productions of Plymouth and the television age. And when you thought watching Julia Child, James Beard and the Galloping Gourmet was enough, now through a new series of video tapes on display in local supermarkets, delicious recipes will come alive. Thirty different recipes for seafood, chicken and barbecue are presently available throughout metropolitan Detroit in eight of the 22 Great Scott Supermarkets.

"Tempting dishes like Crab Stuffed Lobster and Stir Fried Swordfish are prepared by Chef Lorenzo Pizzorni and researched by Chef Kevin Gawronski. Both are nationally certified executive chefs and culinary educators," said Ron Reid, marketing director for Great Scott.

The program involves three steps, 1) presenting the recipe on a video in the supermarket, 2) recipes printed out by computers or already on index cards to be taken home for research and 3) video copies of the recipes demonstrating on tape.

The length of each video recipe averages about three minutes.

Each recipe is thoroughly explained, and the chefs often offer helpful cooking tips. Each recipe is proportioned to serve four people, averages under 600 calories and can be prepared in between 30 and 60 minutes, noted Jeff Rednour, owner.

"The whole program is designed not just how to cook a particular recipe, but why you do what you're doing," said Rednour.

rots, into thin sticks, separate egg yolks and place in small bowl. Whisk in two tablespoons dry white wine. When breasts are fully cooked, place on plate. In skillet, add one tablespoon margarine and add carrot sticks and cook two minutes.

While carrots are simmering, add sliced mushrooms and 1/4 cup wine. Cook until carrots become tender but not mushy. Remove mixture and place over chicken breasts. Pour remaining wine into skillet and add juice from 1/2 lemon and bring to boil. Stir mixture briskly and add egg yolks to create a sauce, not wine, and scrambled eggs.

Lower heat to simmer and add tarragon, red pepper and salt. Ready to serve. Put chicken on platter and spoon wine sauce over chicken. Broccoli or cauliflower in cheese sauce are good complementary vegetables.

Cod Veracruz

- 2 tablespoons olive or salad oil
- 1 medium diced onion
- 3 medium diced tomatoes
- 1 clove minced garlic
- 1 large sliced jalapeno pepper
- 1/4 cup sliced green olives
- 2 tablespoons capers
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 one-pound cod fillets

Dice onions and tomatoes. Mince garlic and jalapeno pepper. Cut fillets across width into strips of one to two inches. Then cut slits into thickened part of fillet to allow for even cooking, so one part of fish won't be over or under cooked. Cut olives in half. In pan, mix garlic, onions and salad oil. Heat over medium heat until onions become transparent.

Now add tomatoes, olives and capers. Simmer 3 minutes and add cod fillets. Cook until fish becomes opaque and flakes easily with fork. Overcooking will dry and toughen fish. Serve with favorite vegetable and garnish. Each serving is about 220 calories. This recipe works equally well with red snapper, haddock and grouper.

Chicken Bonne Femme

- 2 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup dry white wine
- 1/2 lemon
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 salt
- 1/8 tarragon
- 1/8 red pepper
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced mushrooms
- 1 medium carrot
- 2 large chicken breasts, skinned and boned. (Can use chicken fillets.) Generally, allow one half pound of chicken per serving.

Cut chicken breast in half. Tenderize breast on flat surface and hammer with mallet the same way you would pound beef. This breaks down the fatty content and grizzle.

Melt margarine in skillet over medium heat. When using margarine or cooking oil, be careful of high heat and not to burn it. Place chicken in covered skillet, smooth side down to prevent sticking. Cook on both sides.

While chicken is cooking, slice car-

No laughing matter

Members of the New Hope Baptist Church, Westland, aren't laughing about a sign displayed on a church tree stating "Please do not place signs on trees."

The sign, stationed on the tree for about two years, is used to ward off garage sale lovers who often use the trees as advertising posts. According to one member, about 60 nails were removed from the area trees before the sign was installed.

The sign, pictured on the church page last week, has apparently proved its value by eliminating the problem. Church members will admit that the sign may seem like a contradiction in terms, but as one member put it, "one nail is a lot better than 60."

has birthday theme

Students of Vacation Bible School at First United Methodist Church in Belleville turned back the pages of time when they recreated local history during their Michigan Marketplace activities.

Children between the ages of 3 and those who have completed the sixth grade are encouraged to participate in the week-long event which will be conducted each day this week from 9:15-11:30 a.m. in the church yard, 417 Charles Street, Belleville. The cost is $2.50 per child or $5 per family.

During the program students will learn about life in early Michigan and Belleville. "They will study family life, schools and Indians," said Donette Bourke, educational director.

They will also learn the history of the church, the oldest in Belleville, which dates back to 1840. "In three years, we'll celebrate our sesquicentennial," Bourke added.

This is the third year for the Marketplace activity which emphasizes church history through stories and pictures. In fact, a story teller will reminisce about Belleville in the olden days. Children will hear stories about the old "circuit riders," ministers who traveled from town to town. Belleville was originally in the Dearborn circuit, Bourke explained.

Each child joins a group or family headed by a parent. "They learn what family life would have been like back then. They learn the old songs and games and how many children's activities today are not so different from 100 years ago. We study the relationships between parents and children. This gives children the opportunity to get to know other parents," she said.

And the marketplace itself, a place back in time, where the children will receive a hands-on demonstration of such ancient crafts as the making of candles and soaps. They will churn butter and braid rugs. Each child will make one square of a quilt which when completed will depict Michigan history and hang on a church wall.

In years past, handiwork that children completed in the marketplace included a woven stole for the minister and wall hanging for the church.

Bourke said the program draws about 50 elementary age children and 35 preschoolers. "The program always has many more children from the community than just church members. Sure, it's fun, but it's educational and family oriented with a focus on religion," she said.

Church helps in festival

Members of the Trinity Episcopal Church, Belleville Road at I-94, Van Buren Township, were busy last weekend, gearing up for the 11th annual Belleville Strawberry Festival.

Churchgoers took an active role in the festival by selling famous homemade strawberry ice cream, baked goods and crafts.

In addition, entertainment was provided by the church. Musical groups such as The September Days Band, The Trademark Band and Joe Prater and the Huron Valley Boys were featured.

And as if that weren't enough participation, the church sponsored Bonzo the Clown.

We want to collar
a few good men.

The Archdiocese of Detroit has a job to do. We know some people who are facing tough choices in life who need good advice. We know some people who are facing no choices who still need hope. We know a lot of great kids who need a place to be kids, and maybe someone to bring the ball or the music. We know a few older people who are going to die whether or not someone is there to bring them peace. All over the Archdiocese there are people who need a place to count their blessings and share their sorrows—people who need a hand, or a shoulder to lean on, or sometimes just an ear.

At Sacred Heart Seminary we're teaching young men to use the hands and shoulders and ears and hearts God gave them. It's a great education. A college degree. Graduate work. We'll give you up to eight years to decide you really want to be a priest before we ask you to do it for good. Sure, the hours are long. But they're flexible. And if you come to work here, you'll get rich in ways few people can imagine. Not everyone can do the job. If you think you can, call us. We can't call you.

The work is hard. But the rewards are infinite.

Hair care for the '80s

Beauty shop features drive-in window

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Don't expect to receive a haircut, tint or permanent at the drive in window at Day's Hair Care Center in Inkster. Customers can purchase hair care products of nearly every brand and type, but beauty services haven't yet obtained this level of convenience.

"That would be great," conceded 47-year-old owner Lee Day. "And opportunities would be endless."

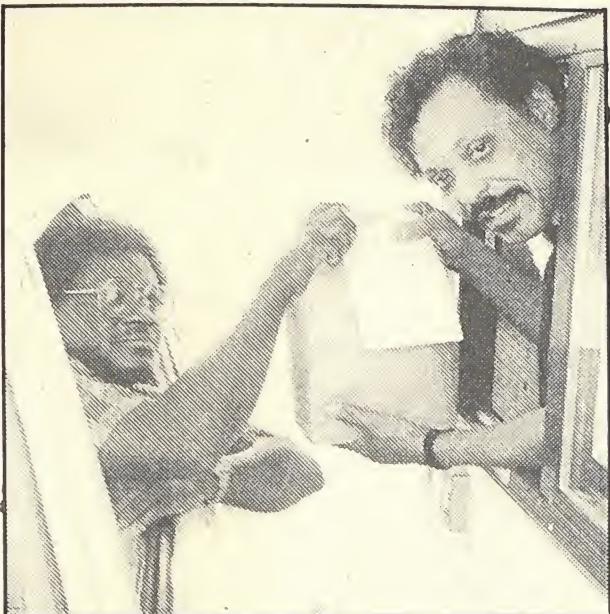

But unlike fast food restaurants with drive-up windows, customers of Day's Hair Care Center can expect to purchase products from a vast array of hair, health and beauty aids. Just about everything available on the market today is sold in his store, wholesale and retail, Day noted. He even stocks grocery and sundry items.

This local entrepreneur has 17 years experience in the field of cosmetology and opened his store on Inkster Road seven years ago. He added, "And I'm the seventh child." He suggested that with so many number sevens falling in place, 1987 could be a very good year, not that the years in the business haven't already been good. He opened the drive-through service in March of this year. And he said, "Business is picking up."

He was born and raised in Jackson, Mississippi, one of 16 children. In 1959, he was traveling to California by way of Flint, Michigan when a big snow storm struck and stranded him. He stayed in Michigan ever since.

He earned certification as a master mechanic and later, in 1977, worked for General Motors. While there, at the urging of his brother, he studied at Edwards School of Cosmetology in Flint.

"My brother kind of got me into the business. At one time he operated seven Day Hair Care stores throughout Saginaw, Flint and Detroit, now, his and mine are the only ones left," said Day, who runs the business with the help of his wife, Jacqueline and daughters, LaShaun, 25, and Gloria, 18. "It's a family affair," he said.

Lee Day hands Floyd Morgan his purchase at the Inkster drive-in beauty supply store.

"My brother wanted me to get involved. And when I first came to Inkster I saw a need. No businesses providing hair care products. Today, we sell both sales and service. It's a complete store," he said.

open for business

Day researched the drive-up service for three years before installing it earlier this year. "We have a lot of handicapped and senior citizen customers. This way they don't have to worry about getting out of the car. We service an ethnically mixed community and sell both white and black hair care products. No businessman is prejudiced against money. Our staff is here not just to sell but to serve," Day said.

Company celebration

Inkster city and Wayne County officials were present last Wednesday for the presentation of the Allied Automotive Bendix Heavy Vehicle Systems preferred supplier award to employees at Wolverine Gas-ket Company, Inkster. Wolverine is only the second Allied supplier to receive the prestigious award since October 1985. At the left, Dan Rossler (far left) and Terry Ray of Wolverine welcome Inkster Mayor Betty Miller to the reception. Wolverine employees Pam Crockett and Ray Calhoun were given the prestigious award. PRAYER to the Holy Spirit

Holy Spirit, you who made me see everything and showed me the way to reach my ideal, you who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Persons must pray the prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish. After third day wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as this favor is granted. Signed "E.B."
